

◀ 1 : packed lunch

- Good morning, Tom. What do you want in your packed lunch today?
- Can I have a chicken sandwich, Mum?
- Sorry, there is no chicken.
- I'll have ham and cheese sandwich then. And a packet of crisps, please.
- What do you want for dessert?
- I'd like a banana and a chocolate brownie, please.

◀ 2 : at the restaurant

- Good evening, Sir.
- Can I have a look at the menu?
- Here you are, Sir. The soup of the day is a pea soup.
- I don't want soup; I'd rather have the mixed salad.
- What about some roast chicken with potato chips and carrots?
- That sounds good!
- For dessert we've got fruit, a delicious apple pie with vanilla ice-cream and a great chocolate cake.
- I think I'll have the chocolate cake.
- Excellent choice! Can I get you anything to drink?
- A glass of beer, please.

◀ 3 : at the fast-food restaurant

- Good evening, are you ready to order?
- I'd like a bacon and cheese burger and a large French fries.
- Ketchup or mustard?
- Ketchup please.
- Anything else?
- A strawberry milkshake, please.
- Anything to drink?
- A small orange juice with ice, please.
- Here you are! Seven pounds fifty, please.
